Different Types of Insect Repellent

1

Chemical-Based

- DEET (N, N-diethyl-3-methylbenzamide) is one of the most effective repellents.
- DEET should not be used on infants less than 2 months old.
- Chemical-based insect repellents can provide up to two hours of protection.

2

Plant-Based

- Essential oils from plants such as citronella, cedar, lavender, geranium, pine, cinnamon, rosemary, thyme have insect repellent activity.
- Most plant-based repellents provide a shorter duration of protection compared to chemical-based repellents.

Facts About Insect Repellent

- Insect repellents do not kill the insects.
- They discourage the insects from landing on human skin or clothing.
- They cause insects to lose the ability to locate their prey for a few hours.
